

Nick Veasey
Principal, Director of M&A
Booz Allen Hamilton

After graduating from the Naval Academy in 2002, Nick served for 5 years in the United States Marine Corp as a reconnaissance platoon commander with deployments to Iraq and other areas in the Middle East. He then earned an MBA and began his finance career at Deutsche Bank in the industrials investment banking group focusing on M&A and debt capital markets. In 2014, Nick joined a family investment office and spent a year buying SDVOSB and VOSB businesses before transitioning to Booz Allen in 2015.

Nick's current responsibilities include the full lifecycle of mergers and acquisitions from banker relationships to target sourcing, due diligence through valuation, negotiation and deal execution. Nick also devotes a significant portion of his time to the firm's capital structure and capital allocation strategy.